

Connie Borup

Water is an essential element for survival in our world. Right now, water is threatened by extreme temperatures and dangerous materials we have introduced. Toxic algae has also developed.

I seek to focus on the beauty and aesthetic qualities of water in nature; hopefully these views remind us of the value of continued wisdom in our use of water

