- E: Our dad used to be pretty good at art when he was younger.
- C: Nowadays he seems to wander forward & backward & even sideways.
- E: But what about ink & watercolors?
- C: He says he fails $\frac{2}{3}$ of the time.
- E: Maybe he likes the risk... like chasing a mouse!
- C: I heard him say "The bigger the brush the bigger the rust."
- E: Someday he tinkers over small details.
- C: Maybe he's trying to save a hopeless cause.
- E: We never know what he'll paint with. Sometimes he doesn't even use paint.
- C: It's like when he feeds us pumpkin, tuna & kibble at the same time.
- E: I've heard him call it mixed-media.
- C: If he painted normal, he'd save time.
- E: The painting will start to look good and then he'll ruin it.
- C: He can't go forward without going backwards.
- E: It's like he's putting the beginning into the end.
- C: At least he feeds us regularly!
